REAL ESTATE.

The Week Past the Most Active Ever Experienced in Our Healthy Growth.

Quite a Number of Important Transactions at Very Good Figures.

Other Cities in the Territory Forging Ahead-A Fine New Building for Missoula.

Real estate has been as active as ever during the week. Some of the dealers who have been giving reports of their doings are very reticent because, they claim, their brother dealers doubt their statements. A noticeable feature has been the arrival of at least a dozen real estate men, who propose plying their vocation of booming things, as they have done in other towns. One of Helena's foremost capitalists, when asked what was the outlook for a prosperous season for Helena, replied: "The most promising feature of a lively real estate market for the season is the advent in town of the peripatetic boomer and land shark, whose sole claim to recognition and business is his gift of gab and gail.

"He is becoming very 'numerous,' and the curbstone resounds with his harangues. The city has been blessed with a body of real estate men who in reputation and financial standing, as a body, have been the peer of any class of business men of the place, and it is to be regretted that the high standard should be lowered by the coming in of a less responsible element.

"It will be well for would-be investors to deal with established houses of known in-

The building activity continues through-out the city and new enterprises are daily being maugurated. The Montana Granite company has secured the contract of erecting a new church for the African Methodist-Episcopal congregation, to cost about $3,500. It will be located on the corner of Fifth avenue and Hoback street.

The machinery for the Helena Steam Sawing and Polishing company has arrived and will be in operation in ten days. This is a branch of the Montana Granite company enterprises, and will prove a bene-ficial feature in our growing industries. The object is to saw and polish stone by machinery, which will make it possible to build houses with veneered sandstone Nearly every real estate dealer is pleased with the week's business. Wallace & Thornburgh report having had the best week since they have been in business, their sales being equal to double the amount of any two previous weeks. They claim to have sold 120 lots in two days, and rushed with business in the Hershfield addition, which has just been thrown on the market. Witherbee & Hunter's report: "We have had our usual run of business. Nothing very important to record, our sales principally being in retail trade. We sold 775 feet in Flower Garden addition to J. Hinkley of the Journal and others for $5.50 per foot. We sold 100 feet in Grand avenue addition to Lewis Anthony for $1,300; 50 feet on lower Main street to Wm. Larkin for $2,000; about seven acres for Mr. Floyd-Jones to E. C. Driffuld, of San Francisco, and others, for $4,500. Our sales for the week will aggregate $15,000.

This firm is giving very correct folding maps of Helena away to its patrons, very convenient in size to carry in the pocket.

WEST SIDE POINTERS. Trade in west side property has been active for the past week, principal transactions being in Syndicate, Brooke, Bellevue, ive for the past week, principal transactions being in Syndicate, Brooke, Bellevue, Highland and Seymer Parks. A number of transfers have been made in acreage adjoining Seymer Park at $200 per acre just double the price paid for the land five months ago. Choice locations along Hauser street are selling readily at from $12 to $15 per foot, an advance of at least 50 per cent, in about a year.

Porter, Muth & Cox, representing owners in the prominent west side additions, have just closed a building contract with a well known architect, who is backed by unlimited capital, for fifty houses, twenty of which are to be built this season and the balance next year. All of these houses are to be first-class, nothing to cost less than $3,000. This will be a good opportunity for purchasers to get a house in a first-class neighborhood and on easy terms.

Nothing new has developed in the Methodist college negotiations unless it be that the site selected is at Marshai Haru's ranch northwest of the city. It is probable that all the details will be completed Monday. The entire structure will cost $150,000 when completed. Paulsen & McConnell are preparing the plans of the interior, a design of theirs for the outward appearance having been accepted.

REAL ESTATE PLEASANTRIES.

A very good story on a prominent real estate man is going the rounds, and leaving out names and other identifying features is about as follows: The p.r.e. man has a well defined faculty for enlarging upon facts, the exercise of which a few weeks ago brought frequent blushes to the cheeks of an employe whose religious associations inclined him to a respect for truth and veracity. After the association of employer and employe for a very few weeks the latter developed such powers of eloquent dilation, marvelous prediction and extravagant statement that the blush mantled the hardened cheek of the p. r. e. man and his friends hall this proof of a lingering conscience with delight.

Another prominent dealer, who has taken an active interest in locating the Methodist college on Scratch Gravel, has had a prophetic dream in which, although the college had been located elsewhere, the state capitol building had arisen from the ashes of his hopes and its turrets and spires pointed heavenward from the beautiful southern slopes of his chosen site.

Another bidder for the esteemed honor of placing the school tendered a fine plat of ground, not, as he claimed, that he wanted it, or that it would do him any good, but simply to help out his brethren. An opposing wire-worker nalled him with the proposition to place it elsewhere for a smail bonus. He didn't get it, though.

Missoula is ranidly coming to the front

BUILDING IN MISSOULA. Missoula is rapidly coming to the front with new enterprises, characteristic of the thrifty people who inhabit the pretty town. Capt. Higgins, the well known capitalist will begin right away the erection of a handsome structure, 100x90, three stories and a basement to cost $65,000 and will be lecated on Higgins average and tion of a handsome structure, 100x90, three stories and a basement to cost $65,000 and will be located on Higgins avenue and Main street. It will be a bank and business block, the plans and elevation of which are in the hands of Paulsen & McConnell of this city, and were shown to an INDEPENDENT reporter yesterday by Mr. McConnell. The bank portion of the structure will be of cut granite, with a projecting circular tower bay on the corner, supported by polished granite columns. In the first story there will be an opening forming an entrance to the bank proper. The bank will be fitted up with all modern conveniences for the speedy and effective transaction of business. The finish of the stores and bank will be one-fourth sawed white oak. The store fronts will be trimmed with native granite. The second and third stories will be faced with St. Louis pressed brick and terra cotta, the whole being surmounted with a copper cornice of a massive and elegant design.

The building is provided with an entrance on each street to the floor above, besides an elevator with the latest modern fittings and improvements. The second and third stories will have forty four large offices, besides the plumbing facilities and con-veniences necessary. All offices receive direct light and will be well ventuard. The building will be heated with steam and will be well lighted, and altogether a beautiful addition to Missoula.

Wolf & Ryman's contract for the West-ern National bank building to be erected at Missoula has been awarded to he Mon-tana Granite company of this city for $13,300.

CIVIL ENGINEERS.

The Montana Society Hold an Interesting Meeting.

The Montana Society of Civil Engineers held their regular monthly meeting last night at the office of E. H. Beckler, chief engineer of the Montana Central railroad.

There were present ten members and one visitor, Judge Blake. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Beckler, first vice president. The committee on library and permanent quarters reported that Mr. Beckler had tendered to the society the use of his office in which to hold meetings, with the privilege of placing a book case in one of the rooms, and recommended that the offer be accepted, also that the society expend $60 out of the funds on hand towards a library. Mr. Danse said he had not prepared a paper but would favor the society with a talk on the construction of fire proof buildings. This he did in an able manner, illustrating his remarks with blackboard sketches of differentimethods of construction. His remarks were followed by a general discussion by the members. Mr. Sizer and Mr. Robinson called the attention of the society to the law passed by the last legislature relative to boiler inspection, pointing out several defects in the same, and asked to have the matter brought up for discussion at a future meeting. Mr. Robinson promised to address the society on the subject in a communication pointing out the objectionable features of the law, after which the society adjourned.

PLAIN SAILING.

Germany's Premier in the Humor to Concede America's Position on the Samoan Question.

Sir Edward Malet Also Agrees, so the Labors of the Conference Will Not Last Long.

The Only Questions Those Affecting Matters Which Can be Adjusted Without

Much Frietion or Delay. (Copyrighted 1889 by N. Y. Associate Press.) BERLIN, April 20.-Herbert Bismarck has prepared a statement for the Samoan conference as a basis for discussion. It has been submitted to and approved by Sir Edward Malet, the British ambresador, who was in all probability consulted while it was being drafted. If the American commissioners accept the statement the conference ought not to last more than a week. Germany concedes the principle of absolute non-interference in Samoa, and the natives are to be left free to choose as their fuler either Malietoa, Tamasese or Mataafa. No claims for compensation for German subjects are mentioned in the statement and practically the work of the conference is limited to defining explicitly the powers of the consuls, in regulating trade and shipping, the boundaries of any rights over Pago Pago and other victualing stations, and the formation of a tribunal for the protection and trust of foreigners. The foreign office regards Bismarck's censure of Consul regards Bismarck's censure of Consul Knapp and his declaration that Germany does not desire to meddle with the internal does not desire to meddle with the internal affirs of Samoa, combined with the proposals to be placed before the Samoan conference furnish ample proof that Germany earnestly wishes to conciliate the American government. At the same time it is regretted the American government ignered diplomatic etiquette in sending delegates who are personally prejudiced on the questions to be laid before the conference. Nothing of this feeling however, will be shown toward Bates and Sewall, who will meet with a cordial greet.

the conference. Nothing of this feeling however, will be shown toward Bates and Sewall, who will meet with a cordial greeting from Herbert Bismarck on their arrival Thursday. Sir Edward Malet, the British ambassador here, has asked Lord Salisbury to send Scott, the British minister, to Berlin as a delegate to the Samoan conference. Scott was formerly secretary of the British embassy in Berlin and is thoroughly conversant with the Samoan treaties and colonial matters generally.

A conference was held to-day between Count Herbert Bismarck and Sir Edward B. Malet, the British ambassador, who are both members of the international conference appointed to arbitrate upon the Samoan question. The statement published in the Cologne Gazette to the effect that the nomination of Mr. Sewell as disbursing officer of the American commissioners to the conference together with the appointment of Mr. Bates as a member of the commission, indicated an uniriendly attitude on the part of the government of the United States concerning the proposed terms of settlement to be deliberated upon by the commission, although copied in the Berlin journals, is discredited by the British minister and the German authorities. On the contrary, it is already sufficiently well understood in government circles here that all that the American commissioners have been instructed to stipulate for in the terms of settlement to be decided upon by the conference is that none of the treaty powers shall tlement to be decided upon by the confer-ence is that none of the treaty powers shall exercise any domination hereafter over the islands; that the maintenance of the suislands; that the maintenance of the su-preme authority of the native government shail be regarded as an essential condition of any agreement between the United States and Germany in the matter, and that the policy pursued by the American representatives at Apia during the recent ensure be clearly set forth to the commis-governments during the discussion of the erms of settlement of the Samoan question. The Munich Allegamine Zeitung says DID THEIR DUTY. South Germany has never witnessed anything like the present activity of socialism, the aim of which is to influence peasants and the smaller land owners with a view to obtaining their suffrages in the coming election.

BEHRING SEA FISHERIES.

The Canadian Parliament to Discuss the Matter Next Week TORONTO, April 20 .- A special from Ottawa to the Express, the government organ, says Col. Prior some day next week will initiate a discussion in the house in reference to the Behring sea seizures. The people of British Columbia are anxious to secure a termination of the unpleasantness which has existed for the last three years, and until the question of jurisdiction in Behring sea is determined some irritation is likely to exist. It is understood negotiations are still in progress on the subject, and the general belief is there will be an international conference to deliberate on the question. France, Germany and Italy are almost as much interested in the quesare almost as much interested in the ques-tion as Great Britain and Canada, and the support of the government of these coun-tries is confidently relied upon to sustain the contention of the Canadian government. At the present juncture the premier will doubtless not feel justified in speaking as openly on the question as he or the people of British Columbia would like, but doubt-less he will be able to give such assurances. less he will be able to give such assurances as will satisfy the country that the govern-ment has not been neglectful of its duty or ment has not been neglectful of its duty or of Canada's interests. A special from Victoria, B. C., on the subject says: "The seal fishers are going out armed and prepared to resist seizure by American cutters." The Globe, commenting on the possibility of a conflict, says: "In order to obviate this danger, the British government should order a man-of-war to protect Canadians in the Behring sea, or should plainly abandon the apparently shallow pretense that Great Britain will stand by Canada's rights against any American aggression whatever."

TRACE OF THE DANMARK.

One of the Steamer's Boats Found - N News of the Passengers.

LONDON, April 20.-Capt. Blacklen, of the British steamer Minnesota, from Baltimore, reports that on the 14th inst., in latitude 45 deg. 15 min. north, longitude 37 west, he passed a life boat painted white, with the words "Danmark, Copenhagen," on the stern. In the boat were oars and three row locks in position for use. One boat-hook and one tarpaulin lay along the bottom of the boat, which was half full of water. The painter was colled in the head sheets, and pieces of cigar boxes were also seen in the boat. There was every appearance that the people who had been aboard had been taken off.

New York, April 20.—A representative of Funck, Eddy & Co. said this morning the Minnesota had picked up one of the Danmark's boats, and he surmised the passengers had been rescued. "Otherwise," he said, "where would the boats be? If they perished the dead bodies would remain in the boats. It is not probable they would jump overboard so long as it continued afloat. The broken cigar boxes indicated the occupants have placed their valuables in them when leaving the ship and when being rescued broke up the boxes in their hurry. If the passengers have been rescued we ought to hear from them by the end of next week.

Boulanger to Leave Belgium. BRUSSELS, April 20 .- Boulanger has announced his intention to leave here for London 'on Wednesday. Bouree, the French embassador, yesterday informed Prince de Chimay, minister of foreign affairs, that the meeting of the Boulanger emeute be clearly set forth to the commission. The German government having already declared itself in favor of the policy of strict neutrality no apprehensions whatever are entertained here as to the threatened international complications which certain journals assert are more than likely to arise between the German and American Admiral Kimberly's Report to Tracy on the Disaster to the Navy at Samoa.

The Faulty Construction of the Flagship Given as the Cause of Her Loss.

A Court of Inquiry Asked For-Seaman Fooge an Honor to the Navy and the Country.

WASHINGTON, April 20 .- This morning's mail to the navy department brought two letters from Admiral Kimberly referring to the wrecking of the American fleet at Apia. The first letter is dated at Apia, March 19, and reads:

"I have to commend to the government of the United States the very great assist ance we received in saving public property from our wrecked vessels at this place from Mataafa, who without request on my part called on me personally and sent some hundreds of his men to assist our people in saving stores and material from the wrecked vessels. Also when the Nipsic and Vandalla went ashore the natives risked their lives to save those of our men who endeavored to reach the shore by swimming, and two of them lost their lives in the attempts. If some recognition of these services could be made, I think it would be appreciated very highly by the Samoans, particularly as they have so generously given their services and in two cases their lives to be friend us."

Under date of Apia, March 21, Kimberly writes: "The Nipsic was got off last night and is now affoat without rudder or rudderpost. Her crew is engaged in trying to get ple in saving stores and material from the post. Her crew is engaged in trying to get up her chains. The Trenton is sunk, water post. Her crew is engaged in trying to get up her chains. The Trenton is sunk, water coming over the port side of the gun deck at high tide. I think her back is broken. She might possibly be freed from the water if we had the proper appliances—powerful steam pumps, etc. She has no rudder, rudder post or propeller. She lies with her deck slightly inclined to seaward and lies alongside of the wreck of the Vandalia, which is shoreward of her. The latter vessel is a total wreck, broken in two. If I can save the Nipsic, which can be done, if the weather permits, I will send her under convoy to Auckland, to be docked and repaired Another ship should be sent here for the purpose of cenvoying her, as the risk of an improvised rudder is too great to send her there alone. I have still to learn of the condition of her machinery and propeller, but I shall be informed in the course of a few days."

condition of her machinery and propeller, but I shall be informed in the course of a few days."

Kimberly s official report is quite long. It gives the details of the disaster in substance as already related by the Associated Press correspondent in his full report from Apia, though much less fully. The following points of interest are taken from the admiral's report. Kimberly says: "Indications of bad weather appeared during the forenoon of Friday, March 15, and at 1 o'clock we commenced preparations to meet the gale by sending down the lower yards, housing the topmasts, lighting the fires and raising steam." He refers to the fact that most of the water came into the flagship through the hawse pipes, as related in the Associated Press report. The admiral says all efforts to prevent this failed, owing to the force of the waves driving out everything used to stop them. The admiral then gives a list of the killed, which does not differ from that sent out by the Associated Press last week. He then continues: "During the excitement Capt. Farquhar showed great care and good judgment in handling the ship through this terrific gale and never left the bridge. He was ably seconded by his executive and navigating officers, and did all in his power Prince de Chimay, minister of foreign affairs, that the meeting of the Boulanger committee in Brussels impressed the Paris government unfavorably. The cabinet served, all the officers behaved extremely served, all the officers behaved extremely well under the trying circum-tances and performed their duties cheerfully. Capt. Farquhar has demanded a court of inquiry. As no disinterested officers are available, he therefore respectfully refers the entire matter to the department, and if further investigation be deemed necessary I should be pleased to have a court of inquiry or dered."

Brave Seaman Fooge. WASHINGTON, April 20 .- In a dispatch from the late Capt. Schoonmaker, dated on board the Vandalia, March 8, that officer calls the attention of the department to the meritorious conduct of William Fooge, a seaman. A man fell overboard Feb. 22 seaman. A man fell overboard Feb. 22 and Fooge jumped overboard and brought him a rope, enabling him to get on board again. March 7, after a heavy blow, with much swell in the roadstead, it was discovered a rope was foul in a screw, thus disabling the ship, then in an unsafe place. Fooge went under the counter in a heavy swell and cleared the line. On the same morning Humphries, a seaman of the Vandalia, while working the anchors fell overboard. He could not swim and would have undoubtedly drowned but for the courage at d presence of mind of Fooge, who jumped overboard from the forecastle, swam to him with a rope and succeeded in swam to him with a rope and succeeded in getting him on board. Commander Shoonmaker in his report says: "In view of these acts of efficiency and humanity, I feel myself in duty bound to call them to the attention of the department and to ask that it will give such reward to Economic States." that it will give such reward to Fooge as in its wisdom will be right."
